India Inc goes long as short-term fund rate spikes L&T, Grasim, UltraTech raise money via 10-year bonds

SUBRATA PANDA Mumbai, 15 January

With short-term rates firming up due to tight liquidity conditions. Indian corporates are opting to borrow long term to take advantage of the attractive rates by locking them in these uncertain times. The banking system has a liquidity deficit of over ₹2 trillion.

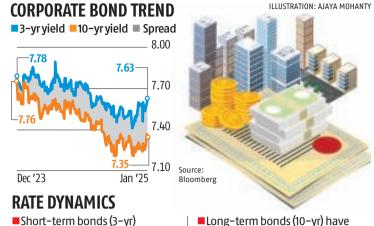

According to market participants, engineering conglomerate Larsen & Toubro (L&T) raised ₹1,500 crore through 10-year bonds in December 2024. It is expected to tap the market again to raise ₹4,000 crore through 10year bonds again. Similarly, Grasim Industries raised ₹2,000 crore through 10-year bonds while UltraTech Cement raised ₹1,000 crore through bonds of the same tenure recently. Signifying the firming up of rates in the shorter tenure, even AAA-rated ₹4.412 crore from the debt market at a slightly elevated cut-off of 7.53 per cent through three-year bonds. In contrast, state-owned REC raised ₹2,297 crore at 7.2 per cent through 10-year bonds. Market participants indicated that the spread on shorter-tenure corporate bonds (typically three years) over government bonds of equivalent maturity is in the range of 50-60 basis points (bps). In contrast, for 10-year corporate bonds, the spread over 10vear government securities typically falls between 25 bps and 30 bps.

"Near-term interest rates have gone up, and there is still some opportunity in longer-tenure bonds, prompting investors to take a more opportunistic stance," said a debt capital market source, adding that while discussions about a potential cut continue there's still uncertainty about when it will actually happen, resulting in issuers PSU entity Nabard recently raised looking to protect themselves from Capital Financial Services. "Top notch interest rate risk and volatility by locking in fixed rates for longer durations. Short-term rates have risen in the domestic debt capital market while long-term rates (on 10-year and 15-year bonds) remain attractive. Insurance companies and pension funds, which are less affected by tight liquidity in the system, typically prefer investing in longer-tenure bonds. This demand has contributed to more favourable rates on long-term bonds compared to shorter-tenure bonds.

"With tight liquidity and expectation fading for rate cut immediately in the current financial year (FY25), as well as sticky inflation, persistent pressure on the rupee, and other factors, short-term rates have firmed up now. Meanwhile, long-term rates remain attractive, leading to an inverted curve," said Ajay Manglunia, managing director & head-Fixed income, InCred

Strong EV lineup to keep auto expo charged up

Over 25 OEMs to be part of Bharat Mobility expo, which starts tomorrow

BS REPORTERS

Mumbai/New Delhi/Chennai, 15 January

he 2025 edition of the Auto Expo, held under the umbrella of the Bharat Mobility Global Expo (BMGE), is buzzing with excitement after a relatively lacklustre event in 2023. With 2025 set to see a wave of electric vehicle (EV) launches, the Auto Expo is alive with anticipation, expecting dozens of product unveilings and launches during Delhi's winter chill.

While the exact number has not been officially confirmed, industry sources estimate that nearly 40 new products will be showcased or launched at the BMGE. The event is also expected to ease geopolitical tensions between New Delhi and Beijing, as the Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) has reportedly approved the participation of executives from Chinese automobile (auto) makers and auto parts manufacturers, alongside executives from JSW MG Motor India and BYD India.

Passenger vehicle (PV) industry wholesale volumes grew by nearly 4.5 per cent in 2024, reaching 4.3 million units, and automakers expect mid-single-digit growth in 2025.

EVs, however, are projected to see major growth over the next two years. From around 100,000 units in 2025, the OEMs are participating this year, includnumbers are expected to double within two years, according to auto original equipment manufacturers (OEMs). Hvundai Motor India Chief Operating Officer Tarun Garg said that passenger car EV penetration is projected to rise to 17 per cent by 2030, up from around 2.4 per cent currently, aided by an improving ecosystem. The OEM plans to launch the Creta EV at the BMGE.

For the first time, the event will take place across three locations in Delhi: Bharat Mandapam at Pragati Maidan, Yashobhoomi Convention Centre at Dwarka, and India Expo Mart at Greater Noida. Over 25 car and two-wheeler ing MSIL Tata Motors Hyundai Motor India, M&M, Kia, JSW MG Motor, Volkswagen, Mercedes-Benz, BMW, Audi, Vietnam's EV maker VinFast, and China's BYD. Two-wheeler majors such as Bajaj Auto, Hero MotoCorp, Honda Motorcycle and Scooter India (HMSI). Yamaha, Suzuki Motorcycle, and TVS Motor Company, along with newcomers like Ola Electric and Ather Energy, will showcase their new lineups. Vietnamese automaker VinFast, which is setting up an EV assembly plant in Thoothukudi, Tamil Nadu, will display its global EV range, including the compact mini SUV VF3 and the spacious three-row VF9. It will also showcase various SUVs, electric scooters, and the VF Wild, an electric pickup concept.

electric PV market in 2024, will also exhibit globally acclaimed models alongside its existing offerings.

Rajeev Chauhan, head of the electric passenger vehicles business at BYD India, said: "Our participation strengthens our dedication to providing cutting-edge EV solutions for a cleaner environment and a greener future for India " Farlier visas were a n large-scale Chinese participation at the expo. However, on December 13, the MEA allowed the Engineering Export Promotion Council, one of the event's organisers, through a letter, that representatives from 42 countries could participate in the event, with China among them. Interestingly, the participation of Chinese players is vital as the country is a key supplier in the supply chain ecosystem, especially in areas like EV technology, battery production, and raw materials for zero-emission vehicles. Beijing is also important in the auto industry context as its share in auto components to India is around 30 per cent of imports, amounting to $6 billion per year.

Hero Moto sees 'big' rural sales jump in 4-8 qtrs

CEO Niranjan Gupta highlights need for GST slab change for sub-125cc 2Ws

DEEPAK PATEL New Delhi, 15 January

Hero MotoCorp anticipates a big rebound in two-wheeler (2W) sales in rural India over the next four to eight quarters, driven by favourable factors such as a decent monsoon, rising crop prices, improved employment conditions, and increasing consumer confidence, its Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Niranjan Gupta said on Wednesday.

Amid tepid rural sales, he stated that there is a "strong case" for GST (goods and services tax) on entry-level twowheelers, which are under 125 CC, to be moved down from 28 per cent to 18 per cent as they are used by "masses".

"They (2Ws) are not seen as goods or luxury goods. They provide mobility to the masses in India. They also help generate a lot of direct and indirect employment. So, whichever way you look at it, there is a strong case for at least twodown to 18 per cent GST" he

I would say the answer is 'no'. We have seen green shoots, and the ingredients are there. That's why in the next four to six or eight quarters, we could actually see rural areas bouncing back in a big way. The second Covid-19 wave impacted the rural areas the most. Medical costs went up and consumer confidence went down. "Medical costs are what they are and the confidence is slowly coming up. Employment, which was lost during the second Covid wave, is slowly coming up," he mentioned. Gupta said that the electric scooter market is at a nascent stage and it is too early to declare winners and losers.

"Right now, just 5 per cent of the total two-wheeler market is electric. Subsidies are being phased out and the price wheelers up to 125 CC to move competition is intensifying. It will take at least a con

TaMo leverages AI for enhanced vehicle safety

Mumbai, 15 January

Tata Motors has outlined its focus on incorporating artificial intelligence (AI) and other advanced technologies to improve vehicle safety for both occupants and vulnerable road users.

The company stated that it is adopting a comprehensive approach that addresses safety before, during, and after accidents.

Safety measures now include pre-accident prevention, crashevent management, and postaccident support. Historically, safety ratings such as the Global New Car Assessment Program (GNCAP) focused on crash-event performance, evaluating injuries and awarding scores based on thresholds. Tata Motors is expanding its approach by emphasising accident prevention technologies

Airtel may top revenue growth charts in Q3

Residual benefits from last July's tariff hike, Indus consolidation to help telco

SUBHAYAN CHAKRABORTY New Delhi, 15 January

harti Airtel is expected to see its highest revenue growth, and subscriber addition during the third quarter (October-December) of FY25 among telcos said analysts

The telco's top line in Q3 may see the fastest sequential growth at 5 per cent compared to 3 per cent for Reliance Jio and Vodafone Idea (Vi). Airtel's annual mobile revenue growth would rise to 16 per cent, IIFL Capital said in an analyst note. "Airtel may witness the highest mobile revenue growth over Q1-Q4 FY25 (post tariff hikes). Jio's over- all revenue growth of 4 per cent is likely to be aided by brisk fixed wireless access (FWA) subscriber additions. Bharti's home broadband segment should also do well, while enterprise, direct to home (DTH) and Africa would see steady performances, it said.

Residual benefit of last July's broadbased telecom tariff hike is expected to help all telcos, it added.

Other analysts echoed this view. "We expect Bharti/Hexacom's top lines to see the fastest quarter-on-quarter (Q-o-Q) growth at 4-4.5 per cent, followed by Jio at 3 per cent. Vi's growth will be much more muted at 1 per cent," Axis Capital said in a note. Airtel saw 10.3 per cent Qo-Q mobile revenue growth in Q2, the highest in the industry.

Airtel's overall numbers will also be boosted by Q3 seeing 42 days of Indus Towers' consolidation, Bank of America grow 4-5 per cent across telcos Airtel and Jio may stage a turnaround in subscriber numbers, but Vi may struggle Fixed wireless access or home business to perform well in Q3

Positive revenue impact of last tariff hike to flow through Q4 as well said in an analysts note.

The Competition Commission of India (CCI), on October 22, cleared Airtel's proposal to increase stake in Indus Towers to 50.5 per cent, following a buyback of shares by the telecom infrastructure company.

"O3 reported numbers are not comparable to historics as Q3 will have 42 days of Indus Towers' consolidation. After consolidating Indus, we estimate Bharti's revenue and earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortisation (Ebitda) to be ₹44,300 crore," Bank of America said.

Higher telecom tariffs imposed in July 2024 had boosted net profits for Airtel and Jio in O2. Airtel's net profit (attributable to owners) for Q2 had risen 168 per cent year-on-year (Y-o-Y) to ₹3,593 crore from ₹1,340 crore in Q2FY24.

Jio Platforms Ltd (JPL), which runs India's largest mobile network operator Reliance Jio, had reported a 23.4 per cent Y-o-Y rise in net profit to ₹6,539 crore

Meanwhile. Vi saw its net loss shrink 17.8 per cent to ₹7,175 crore in Q2. But its network expansion is expected to raise tower and tenancy additions for Indus Towers in Q3.

"This should lead to rental revenue growth of 7 per cent Y-o-Y.

Vi is also likely to continue repaying its overdues, helping reduce Indus's provision for doubtful debt," Axis Bank said.

After a brief impact of SIM consolidation, subscriber numbers of private telcos will likely start growing again from Q3.

Airtel and Jio are estimated to add a total of 5 million and 3 million subscribers. respectively, while VI's subs may fall by 4 million, ICICI Securities had said in an analysts' note last week.

The key metric of 4G/5G subscribers should remain stable for Airtel. It is expected to add up to 6 million subscribers in that category in O3, while Vi may lose 1 million subscribers.

CCI ruling may force rollback of features, hurt biz: Meta to court

RELITERS New Delhi, 15 January

Meta may have to "roll back or pause'some features in the country due to an antitrust directive which banned its WhatsApp messaging service from sharing user data with Meta for advertising purposes, according to a court filing by the US company seen by Reuters. Meta is seeking to quash the Competition

Commission of India (CCI) November directive which found the company abused its dominance and "coerced" WhatsApp users into accepting a 2021 privacy policy which allegedly expanded user data collection and sharing, giving it an unfair advantage over rivals.

The CCI has imposed a fine of $24.5 million and a five-year ban on the data sharing practice in the country, the biggest market for Meta where it has more than 350 million Facebook users and over 500 million people using WhatsApp.

Vedanta Resources raises $1.1 bn to prepay existing liabilities

Vedanta Resources has raised $1.1 billion through a new bond offering to prepay existing liabilities, the company said in a Singapore exchange filing.

Vedanta Resources Finance II plc, a wholly owned subsidiary of Vedanta Resources, raised $1.1 billion through a new dual tranche issuance in international debt capital markets.

Vedanta Resources Ltd (VRL) has raised $3.1 billion in dollar bonds since September 2024. As per the exchange filing, the latest bond issuance consists of two tranches - a $550 million tranche of 5.5 years tenor at a 9.48 per cent interest rate and a $550 million tranche of 8.25 years tenor at a

The company is conthat cerned the WhatsApp-to-Meta user data sharing ban on WhatsApp will curb its ability to offer users personalised ads on Facebook and Instagram, according to a Reuters review of its nearly 2,000 page filing with the appeals tribunal in the country dated Jan. 3, which is not public. WhatsApp publicly says it shares with Meta a user's phone number, transaction data, how they interact with businesses and mobile device information.

Detailing the ruling's impact for the first time. Meta said in its filing the data sharing ban could mean that an Indian fashion business won't be able to personalise ads on Facebook or Instagram based on their interaction with a WhatsApp user regarding a specific clothing line. 'Under its widest interpretation, implementing the remedy will likely require Meta to roll back or pause several features and products," it said.

"It impacts Meta's and WhatsApp's ability to remain commercially viable," the company added, without quantifying any exact business impact in monetary terms.

Facebook's registered entity engaged in selling advertising inventory in India-Facebook India Online Services-reported revenue of $351 million in 2023-24, the highest in at least five years.

The appeals tribunal will hear Meta's plea on Thursday. Though the case could go on for weeks or months, the tribunal can put the CCI directive on hold in the meantime. Meta and the CCI did not respond to Reuters queries.

Global challenges

The antitrust concerns here add to Meta's global woes. In 2021, WhatsApp was accused to have violated the EU bloc's law by failing to clarify changes to its policy in plain and intelligible language. It later agreed to explain the changes to EU users.

SC warns states of contempt for inaction on misleading ads

The Supreme Court (SC) on Wednesday said it may initiate contempt proceedings against states for their inaction over misleading ads. The court said that the Delhi government's explanation - that identifying offenders was challenging - was "peculiar" and asked other states to file status reports on actions taken on the basis of complaints received. It said that it would take up compliances by Andhra Pradesh, Delhi, Goa, Gujarat and Jammu & Kashmir on February 10. "If we find non-compliance by any of the states and UTs, we may have to initiate proceedings under the Contempt of Courts Act," it said. ANJALI KUMARI Mumbai, 15 January n a first, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has announced that it will conduct daily variable rate repo (VRR) auctions on all working days in Mumbai, until further notice.

The daily auctions, aimed at easing the current liquidity tightness in the banking system, will begin on Friday, with a notified amount of ₹50,000 crore.

The liquidity deficit in the banking system has exceeded ₹2 trillion in the past few days.

According to the latest data, the liquidity deficit in the banking system was ₹2.09 trillion on Tuesday, while on Monday it was ₹2.5 trillion.

The situation is expected to worsen after the start of goods and services tax (GST) outflows later in the month.

"After reviewing the current and evolving liquidity conditions, it has been decided to conduct VRR auctions on all working days in Mumbai, with reversal occurring on the next working day, until further notice," the RBI said on Thursday.

According to the revised liquidity framework announced on February 6, 2020, the 14-day VRR/reverse repo auction was termed the main liquidity operation, while overnight and up to 13day auctions were termed 'finetuning' operations.

These daily auctions will have their reversal on the next working day, except for Fridays, when the reversal will take place on the following Monday or the next working day if Monday is a holiday in Mumbai. The auctions are scheduled to be conducted between 10 am and 10.30 am.

The auction amount will be its liquidity assessments and will 50-basis point cash reserve ratio March," he added.

India's digital evolution on a post-pandemic treadmill

India ranks eighth among 125 countries in terms of its digital evolution momentum, according to a draft of the vet-to-be-released Digital Intelligence Index 2024 — a comprehensive study by the Fletcher School of Business at Tufts University in collaboration with Mastercard.

The 'momentum' of digital evolution is calculated based on the annual rate of change in a country's digital evolution, essentially how quickly its digital transformation is occurring. This is measured using 184 indicators for each year.

services, alongside a surge in Unified Payments Interface payments.

A clear trend impacting India is the post-pandemic slowdown in global digital growth. Between 2016 and 2019, the report notes an average digital compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 4.3 per cent across all countries. However, between 2020 and 2023, this growth decelerated to iust 2.4 per cent CAGR. In India, despite meaningful strides in bridging the mobile internet gap, digital growth has tapered off as people returned to work or resumed outdoor activities.

Bhaskar Chakravorti, dean of global business at the Fletcher School and principal investigator of the research, highlights that the most remarkable change since 2020 has been the US' leap from 35th to third position in 2024, driven by massive advances in artificial intelligence (AI).

Chakravorti emphasises India's progress in bridging its mobile internet gap, leveraging digital payment systems, and utilising digital public infrastructure (DPI) to narrow the digital inclusion gap, particularly for rural women. He notes that India's role as a major data reservoir is crucial for powering an AI-driven economy and predicts it will become the world's top data consumer by 2028.

However, he cautions that the quality of data, not just quantity, is essential, and India has considerable room for improvement, especially in training algorithms across multiple languages. Also, advancements in utilising data for DPI applications could help India establish global leadership.

Chakravorti points out that as the US pulls back from regulating AI and other technologies, the regulatory role of countries like India (and the European Union) will be critical in maintaining sensible guardrails for global AI deployment, social media, and digital developments.

The evolution of India's relationship with the Trump administration will also be closely monitored.

'There is no change from organisational perspective'

Last year, private equity major Warburg Pincus acquired 100 per cent stake in Shriram Housing Finance which is now re-branded as Truhome Finance. RAVI SUBRAMANIAN, managing director (MD) and chief executive officer (CEO) of the company, tells Aathira Varier in Mumbai, that he expects a fall in the cost of funding after the acquisition amid stronger capital position and better credit rating. Edited excerpts:

ČL A

How much capital has Warburg committed? We will be changing our brand because we are no longer a Shriram Group company. From January 16 onwards, it will be called Truhome Finance Limited. We expect that the name change will re-energise the team, give us a new identity and propel us to greater heights. Our net worth, which was about ₹1,500 crore till March 2024, will be ₹3,400 crore this March. Warburg has infused almost ₹2.000 crore in the company. We have another ₹400-₹500 crore in the kitty to infuse, should we need it at some point in time. So essentially, Warburg has given us growth capital. Credit rating agencies are comfortable with the Warburg name and the capital they are infusing. Due to this, we have got 'AA' credit rating from all the three agencies.

What would be the growth strategy now? As far as the strategy for growth is concerned, Warburg's view is that we bought this firm for what it is. We want to continue the way we are doing business - no change in strategy, no change in ticket sizes, no change in customer segmentation and no change in yields. Obviously, they will try to bring in operational efficiencies. We will bring in a fair bit of technology upgrade. Overall, from people down the line remain the same.

How has been this financial year so far from a growth point of view?

We are the fastest growing affordable housing finance company and we are the third largest affordable housing finance company today. The largest being Aadhaar second largest is Aavas and the third largest is us. The gap between us and the second largest is narrowing and hopefully in about a year's time we will probably become the second largest. We started the year at about ₹13,000 crore, we are now at about ₹17,000 crore. We will end the year at about ₹18,000-18,500 crore. So, that makes about 40-45 per cent in terms of assets under management (AUM) growth.

What is the impact on your cost of funds after the acquisition?

Post the acquisition, we expect our cost of funds to drop by 25-30 basis points (bps). Earlier, our cost of funds was higher than most in the peer group. The incremental borrowings are likely to see about 35-40 bps drop compared to the previous ones that we have borrowed. Our overall borrowing is about ₹11,000 crore. It will take nearly a year or 18 months for the rates to go down. Once the repricing cycle comes in, we will get it repriced or will probably keep borrowing and repaying old debt which is more expensive. Secondly, a higher capital situation gives us the might to negotiate harder with most of the banks.

What are the expansion plans?

We have about 171 branches. We will end the year around 180 and we have plans to take it to about 250 by March FY26. So, we will be opening another 70-odd branches next year We are largely in Tier-II and-III cities. We have about 45 per cent of our business coming from these. With this growth that we are currently planning in the 70 branches, all of them will be in Tier-I,-III and-IV cities. So, the contribution of Tier-II,-III and-IV cities will go up from 45 per cent to close to over 60 per cent. By FY27, we will be 60 per cent in Tier-II and-III cities and 40 per cent in Metro and Tier-I cities.

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has been actively intervening in the non-deliverable forwards (NDF) market through buy-sell swaps, resulting in a sharp decline in forward premia. One-month premium fell from a high of 3.80 per cent to around 3 per cent, while one-year premium dropped from 2.75 per cent to 2.50 per cent. The RBI has stepped up these operations recently, signalling a shift toward active liquidity infusion to stabilise monetary conditions. The banking system's liquidity deficit narrowed to ₹2.09 trillion on Tuesday, compared to ₹2.5 trillion on Monday. Despite Wednesday's rally, the rupee has depreciated by 1.18 per cent so far in January and has declined by 3.73 per cent in deficit was a key factor in the the current financial year, underscoring continued headwinds for Foreign loans may be even costlier for companies with limited natural hedges

The rupee's depreciation versus dollar spells a challenge for firms lacking forward cover against their loans, experts warned. However, export-heavy companies like Reliance Industries are better positioned to weather the impact, as their substantial dollar revenues provide a natural hedge, bankers said.

The rupee weakened 2.5 per cent against the dollar, falling from 83.48 in September to end 2024 at 85.57. Over the past year, it has slid 4.4 per cent against the greenback (as on January 1

Now, govt may turn to AI for better insights on trade data

SHREYA NANDI New Delhi, 15 January

The government is working towards developing a data analytics platform with the help of artificial intelligence (AI) to get better insights on trade data, Commerce Secretary Sunil Barthwal said on Wednesday.

Whether there is a consistency in our growth or not, whether resiliency has come in our exports or not. These kinds of insights are now coming. We are working in that direction .. There will be a launch of a platform, which will give us better data analytics," Barthwal said.

A committee, comprising officials from commerce and finance ministries, has been formed to create a mechanism for publishing growth or not, whether resiliency has consistent and accurate data, following calculation errors in gold import data.

FTA progress

India and the United Kingdom are exploring convenient dates to resume the talks for the proposed free trade agreement (FTA) in early February. The talks for the proposed FTA began in January 2022, a commerce department official said.

As far as the review of the India and Asean FTA is concerned, the next round of meeting is scheduled from February 10 onwards in Indonesia. There is progress in the negotiations. but there are some issues in goods, additional secretary Rajesh Agrawal said.

Regarding India-Eurasian Economic Union (EAEU) FTA, the commerce department said that they are currently in the process of finalising terms of references for the pact. Eurasian Economic Union (EEU) comprises Armenia, Belarus, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan and Russia.

Commerce Secretary Sunil Barthwal said, "Whether there is a consistency in our come in our exports or not. These kinds of insights are now coming'

DPIIT officials meet PE-VCs, pension funds on FDI reforms

The Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade (DPIIT) officials on Wednesday held a stakeholder consultation with private equity, venture capital, and pension funds to discuss foreign direct reforms in the country. The meeting comes against the backdrop of the department targeting annual foreign direct investment (FDI) inflows worth $100 billion, on an average for the next five years. In the last five years, the annual average was $70 billion.

"Today's focus was regarding feedback from the industry and suggestions on FDI reforms, mainly because FDI inflows have been declining over the last few years," a source told SHREYA NANDI Business Standard.

lifted most Asian currencies.

'The dollar index has been softening, and there were some inflows from the foreign bank side. Trade deficit data was also taken positively," said a dealer at a state-owned bank. "The dollar index has come down, but it is still elevated, and the volatility will remain until Donald Trump takes over as US president," the dealer added.

The decline in India's trade rupee's gains, said Anil Bhansali, head of treasury and executive

A senior treasury executive at a state-run bank noted that raising funds in foreign currency could grow costlier, especially for companies with limited natural hedges. "Forward cover prices will go up. Also, companies will have to shell out more rupees for buying a dollar (at the time of repayment if the domestic unit falls further). This will weigh heavily on any plans for raising money in dollars," he said.

Global market volatility and corporate caution are already tempering the pace of foreign borrowing, bankers said. "How US policies evolve under the incoming Donald Trump's administration will be critical for companies considering overseas fundrais-

On the other hand, a weaker rupee benefits exporters in sectors like IT, pharmaceuticals, textiles, and apparel. These industries, which earn significant dollar revenue, stand to gain on a net basis after accounting for import costs.

"A weaker rupee will help local pharmaceutical exports. Hope companies use the rupee's devaluation to increase profitability, instead of competing against indigenous competition. In fact, many Indian companies sell below cost to gain market share, which is a flawed competitive strategy,' Kiran Mazumdar Shaw, chairperson, Biocon and Biocon Biologics, told Business Standard last week.

In November alone, gold deficit (CAD) and gross domesimports were slashed by tic product (GDP). $5 billion to $9.8 billion following the discovery of a calculation error caused by double-counting shipments stored in warehouses. Last week, the commerce department said that data revision was necessitated due to the "migration of data transmission mechanism" from National Securities Depository Limited (NSDL) - which captures special economic zone (SEZ) data — to the Indian Customs Electronic Gateway (ICEGATE).

Commerce Secretary Sunil Barthwal said that a standard operating procedure is being developed to improve coordination between the commerce and revenue departments and ensure more accurate data reconciliation.

The government is still reviewing trade data, and the process is expected to be completed by next month, said another official. The revisions could have implications for key macroeconomic indicators, including the current account

Gold imports remained elevated in December, rising 55 per cent year-on-year to $4.7 billion. Aditi Navar, chief economist and head-research & output at ICRA, noted that a Customs duty cut earlier this financial year was the reason for more than half the rise in the trade deficit.

Other import categories also recorded increases, with electronics up 9.6 per cent, petroleum products rising 2.2 per cent, machinery up 11.75 per cent, organic and inorganic chemicals increasing 7.59 per cent, and vegetable oil imports surging 18.61 per cent.

The sequential dip in the trade deficit in December, coupled with the sharp downward revision for the previous month due to rectified gold import values, is expected to result in a relatively favourable CAD for Q3FY25," Nayar said. "We now estimate the CAD to print at 2.0 per cent of GDP for the quarter and around 1 per cent of GDP for FY25."

On the export front, petroleum shipments fell by 28.6 per cent year-on-year to $4.9

billion, while gems and jewellerv exports plummeted by 26 per cent to $2.5 billion. However, other key sectors showed growth: Engineering goods rose 8.35 per cent, drugs and pharmaceuticals were up 0.63 per cent, electronics surged 35.11 per cent, and readvmade garments increased 12.89 per cent.

Non-petroleum and nongems and jewellery product exports (core exports) together grew 8 per cent to $30.9 billion. For the April-December period, cumulative merchandise exports rose 1.6 per cent to $321.71 billion, while imports climbed 5.1 per cent to $532.48 billion.

In the services sector, exports grew by 3.2 per cent year-on-year to $32.66 billion in December, while imports rose by 11.9 per cent to $17.5 billion, leaving a services trade surplus of $15.16 billion. However, December's services trade data remains provisional and will be revised following Reserve Bank of India updates.

ZUCKERBERG'S COMMENTS ON 2024 ELECTIONS

Meta apologises; Dubey says matter now 'closed'

ARCHIS MOHAN New Delhi 15 January

fter a Meta official publicly apologised on Wednesday for the company's Founder and Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Mark Zuckerberg's remarks on the Indian election results, Chairperson of the Parliamentary Committee on Information Technology (IT) Nishikant Dubey said he now treated the matter as "closed". Dubey had on Tuesday said that the House panel on IT would summon Meta following Zuckerberg's comments in a podcast that India's ruling dispensation lost the Lok Sabha election as did several incumbent governments across the world in 2024.

Sources in the committee had said that it will deliberate on the matter and summon Meta executives between January 20 and 24, and that it expected a formal apology from the firm to the Indian Parliament and its citizens. Failure to address these concerns may result in legal recommendations against the company, sources had said.

However, on Wednesday morning, Meta India Vice-Public Policy

"WE WOULD LIKE TO APOLOGISE FOR THIS INADVERTENT ERROR. INDIA REMAINS AN INCREDIBLY IMPORTANT COUNTRY FOR META" SHIVNATH THUKRAL Vice-President, Meta India

Thukral Zuckerberg's remarks and said it was an "inadvertent error". "Mark's observation that many incumbent parties were not re-elected in 2024 elections holds true for several countries, but not India. We would like to apologise for this inadvertent error. India President and Director for remains an incredibly impor-Shivnath tant country for Meta and we apologised for look forward to being at the heart of its innovative future," Thukral said.

To this, Dubey posted on X: "A Meta India official has finally apologised for the mistake. This is a victory of the common citizens of India." Dubey said people elected Narendra Modi as Prime Minister for the third consecutive term, which was a testimony to his strong leadership. "Now the responsibility of our committee ends on this issue. We treat this issue closed. However, we will continue to hold these social platforms to account in the future on other issues," Dubey later said.

In an interaction with podcaster Joe Rogan, published on January 10, Zuckerberg had said that the "reaction" to the handling of Covid-19 "probably caused the breakdown in trust in a lot of governments".

On January 13, Union Minister for Railwavs. Information and Broadcasting and Electronics and IT Ashwini Vaishnaw accused Zuckerberg of furthering "misinformation". He had also asked Meta to uphold facts and credibility.

On Wednesday, in a detailed note, official sources listed 20 incumbent governments that have lost the subsequent national elections post the pandemic years, especially since 2021, suggesting that India was an exception where the incumbent returned.

In a post on X on Tuesday, Dubey had said: "My committee will summon Meta for this incorrect information. Incorrect information about any democratic country tarnishes its image.'

Ugly truth exposed: BJP

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Wednesday said his party was fighting the "BJP, RSS and the Indian state itself", triggering a row with the BJP alleging that everything the Leader of Opposition does or says is in the direction of breaking India and dividing the society.

Speaking at the inauguration of the new Congress headquarters here, Gandhi also hit out at RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat, saying his remark that India got "true independence" after the Ram temple consecration amounts to treason and is an insult to every Indian.

"The BJP and the RSS have captured every single institution of our country. We are now fighting the BJP, the RSS and the Indian state itself," he said addressing Congress leaders. The remark drew sharp criticism from the BJP, with party chief and Union minister J P Nadda saying the Congress' "ugly truth" has been exposed by its own leader.

Nadda alleged on X that it is not a cret that Gandhi and his ecosystem have close links with urban Naxals and the deep state who want to "defame, demean and discredit" India. The Congress hit back at BJP president for and said time is up for the "Rotten Secret Society". Congress' Pawan Khera said, "Nothing is more rotten than you calling the ideology of Gandhi and the ideology that freed India from the tyrannical British rule. New Delhi, 15 January

Prime Minister Narendra Modi stated on Wednesday that 60 large Navy ships, valued around ₹1.5 trillion. are under construction in the country, with the investment expected to generate an economic circulation of around ₹3 trillion and a sixfold employment multiplier effect. Modi also said that the construction of each vessel will create up to 14,000 direct and indirect jobs.

He made these remarks while dedicating three frontline Indian Navy combatants - INS Surat, INS Nilgiri, and INS Vaghsheer — to the nation during their commissioning at the Naval Dockvard in Mumbai. Notably, this marked the first time that three major warships were commissioned together. All the three frontline platforms have been made in India.

"The 'Make in India' initiative is not only enhancing the capabilities of India's armed forces but also opening new avenues for economic progress," said the Prime Minister.

Citing the shipbuilding ecosystem as an example, he noted that experts estimate every rupee invested in shipbuilding has nearly double the economic impact, according to an official release by the Ministry of Defence (MoD).

While highlighting that "60 large ships" are under construction in the country, the Prime Minister stated that most ship parts are sourced from domestic micro, small and medium enterprises (MSMEs). He added that if 2,000 workers are involved in building a ship, it creates around 12,000 jobs in other industries, particularly in the MSME sector. While he did not specifically refer to the vessels under construction as warships, the Indian Navy had 60 such vessels being built in Indian shipyards as of December.

Stressing the need to modernise India's military for the 21st century, Modi stated, "Be it land, water, air, the deep sea, or infinite space, India is safeguarding its interests everywhere."

He highlighted ongoing reforms, including the creation of the Chief of Defence Staff and the move towards theatre commands to enhance operational efficiency.

In line with Aatmanirbharta (selfreliance) in defence, the PM highlighted that the armed forces have identified over 5,000 items and equipment that will no longer be imported.

He also expressed satisfaction with the Navy's Make-in-India progress, citing the addition of 33 ships and seven submarines over the past decade.

Thirty-nine of the 40 naval vessels have been built in Indian shipyards, including the INS Vikrant aircraft carrier and nuclear submarines like INS Arihant and INS Arighaat.

US consumer prices increased slightly more than expected in December amid higher costs for energy goods, pointing to still elevated inflation that aligns with the Federal Reserve's projections for fewer interest rate cuts this year.

The consumer price index rose 0.4 per cent last month after climbing 0.3 per cent in November. the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said on Wednesday. In the 12 months through December, the CPI advanced 2.9 per cent after increasing 2.7 per cent in November.

Economists polled by increased 3.2 per cent after Reuters had forecast the CPI climbing 3.3 per cent in gaining 0.3 per cent and rising November.

TikTok plans to shut its app for US users from Sunday, when a federal ban on the social media app could come into effect. eme Court moves with the matter said. The outcome of the shutdown would be different from that mandated by the law. The law would mandate a ban only on new TikTok downloads on Apple or Google app stores, while existing users could continue using it for some time. It plans to keep paying US employees even if the Supreme Court does not overturn a law that would force the sale of the short-video app in the US or ban it, the firm's leadership said in an internal memo reviewed by Reuters RELITERS on Tuesday

The regulator has been probing Musk's investment in Twitter since 2022. SEC attorneys in December asked Musk to pay more than $200 million to settle the allegations that he failed to properly disclose his Twitter investment, according to a letter by his lawyers sent to the agency last month reviewed by Bloomberg.

In the letter, Spiro said the SEC is seeking the relief but isn't accusing Musk of acting willfully or with the intent to mislead investors.

The letter also said the agency was

By March 2022, Musk had acquired beneficial ownership of more than 9 per cent of Twitter's outstanding common stock. This triggered reporting requirements due within 10 days of the purchase. Musk filed the report 11 days later, making the company's stock price surge by 27 per cent from the day before, according to the lawsuit. The complaint alleges that Musk repeatedly ignored advice to disclose his stake, after he passed the 5 per cent threshold. The SEC asked the court to direct Musk to pay a civil penalty and return profits, which the agency claims he reaped unjustly from his stock purchases.

President Yoon Suk Yeol faces his first night in detention following his arrest by investigators looking to question the impeached leader over his short-lived martial law declaration.

Investigators from the Corruption Investigation Office for High-ranking Officials took Yoon into custody in an operation that started before dawn after the president repeatedly defied summons to appear for questioning. CIO investigators abandoned their first attempt to detain him on January 3 after a nearly six-hour standoff due to resistance from Yoon's security team. Wednesday's arrest makes Yoon the first incumbent president in the country's history to be taken into custody. He will likely be taken to a detention center in Uiwang, near Seoul, Wednesday evening, a facility that has previously housed impeached former President Park Geun-hye and Samsung Group scion Jay Y Lee.

Investigators are examining whether Yoon's martial law declaration amounts to an act of insurrection, though Yoon has argued that it was within his power as president to issue the order.

Google's Pichai joins tech CEOs in London cricket team bid

BLOOMBERG 15 January

Alphabet Inc Chief Executive Officer Sundar Pichai is joining Silicon Valley executives bidding for a London-based cricket team, according to people familiar with the matter.

The consortium is putting in a bid of more than $\pounds 80$ million (\$97 million) for either the Oval Invincibles or London Spirit. The teams play in The Hundred, a short-form tournament in England and Wales that's pulling in younger fans and more families.

The group is being led by Palo Alto Networks Inc CEO Nikesh Arora and Indian media tycoon Satyan Gajwani, vice chairman of Times

Internet Ltd, the digital arm of Indian media conglomerate Times of India Group. The consortium also includes Microsoft Corp CEO Satya Nadella, Adobe Inc chief Shantanu Narayen, and Egon Durban, co-CEO of Silver Lake Management LLC, the people said, asking not to be named as the information is not public. Representatives for the consortium declined to comment.

Pichai is an avid fan of cricket, a sport that started in England but where it's losing out to big money in India. With lucrative contracts drawing some of the world's best players, the Indian Premier League has attracted large TV audiences and big sponsors.

Indians in tech have already been key in boosting support for the sport in the US, where Nadella and Narayen have invested in Major League

Cricket. In an effort to boost the sport's finances domestically, the England and Wales Cricket Board (ECB) opened a process in September to secure private investment into the eight teams of The Hundred. The auction is being managed by Raine Group, the investment bank that has previously advised on the sale of Manchester United and Chelsea FC. The franchises have been asked to rank two preferred bidders for the final round of the auction. The ECB is hoping to raise over £300 million from the sales.

The Hundred sees each side face 100 balls, creating a shorter game designed to attract new audiences with simpler rules. Since its launch in 2021, more than 2 million people have attended the city-based competition that spans eight venues in England and Wales

While the ECB is looking to sell the 49 per cent stake it owns in each of the teams with the option of a full takeover - it is the two London teams that have drawn the most interest from bidders, the people said. London Spirit is attractive to potential investors because the team plays at Lord's, a ground referred to as the "home of cricket."

Sundar Pichai is joining the bidders group, led by Palo Alto Networks CEO Nikesh Arora and Times Internet Vice-Chairman Satyan Gajwani. It also includes Microsoft CEO Satya Nadella, Adobe CEO Shantanu Narayen, and Silver Lake Co-CEO Egon Durban

An aviation hub

International transit via Indian airports needs attention

t has been reported that Air India, the country's only remaining major fullservice carrier, intends to try and increase its attractiveness to international travellers - both those wishing to fly in and out of India as well as those that might find it convenient to use an Indian airport as a transit hub while travelling between two international destinations. The airline has said that Delhi airport, India's most trafficked, receives less than a hundredth of the 130 million or so passengers who pass through India's airspace annually; Dubai, in comparison, receives 10 per cent of these and Doha 7.5 per cent. Clearly, there is room for improvement in this respect. The airline also believes that more direct flights to international destinations will help its bottom line. Certainly, it is sitting on multiple lucrative landing slots in various international airports that it could better utilise.

Air India's major competitor domestically, low-cost carrier IndiGo, has also ramped up international operations of late. It has been reported, for example, that after the regulators relaxed the prohibition on Indian airlines "wet leasing" planes - renting an aircraft with a crew and passengers - IndiGo is exploring such an arrangement with a Scandinavian airline for connecting flights in Europe. It currently has an arrangement with Turkish Airlines to fly passengers out of India to Istanbul, where they (the passengers) can connect to European destinations; it hopes to operate direct flights to a London airport at some point, though for the moment it appears it may have to settle for Manchester. If this pans out, it will be able to utilise its large domestic network to connect passengers to a British airport through its hub in Delhi.

This excellent opportunity for sectoral growth and increased convenience for passengers will, however, require the co-operation of airport operators and regulators, as well as other government agencies. Creating an international hub is not easy. Only about 20 per cent of traffic in Delhi is transfer traffic, which allows a great deal of room for improvement. However, the reasons for this low number, and the popularity of transit hubs in India's near abroad such as Dubai and Singapore, must be properly understood. Those airports are efficient, promising a low transfer time and great reliability. They also have more connections than any Indian airport. It has been too easy to blame the success of such airports on past decisions to grant bilateral landing rights to airlines that use them as hubs. The question that should be asked is why passengers prefer to use them, once given an option.

Without the cooperation of the relevant authorities in streamlining processes, these attempts are unlikely to succeed. One such requirement is reordering the operations of Customs. Checking baggage should be made easier, rather than requiring passengers to pick up their luggage in order to go through Customs. International transit will require rejigging schedules so as to ensure a convenient transfer time, and for baggage-handling protocols to be made more efficient at Delhi airport. Expansions to the airport's capacity have also been long promised; last year, Delhi airport said it would increase peak efficiency by almost a third, to handle 110 takeoffs and landings an hour. The ambitions of the large airlines and of airports all match up; regulation, oversight, and capacity should be adapted to meet these new aspirations.

Processing power

GPU restriction will affect India's ambitions

he outgoing Joe Biden administration in the United States (US) is proposing a framework restricting the export of advanced computer chips (mainly GPUs or graphics processing units) used to develop artificial intelligence (AI). Under the proposal, roughly 20 key US allies and partners will face no restrictions on accessing chips. But other countries will face caps on the number of chips they could import. India is one of the 120-odd countries that would have its imports of high-end GPUs curtailed if this proposal goes through. This is apparently an attempt to maintain US primacy in AI development with a strong focus on preventing China from outpacing America technologically. Even close US allies like Israel and several European Union members will suffer import restrictions. The proposal has to find bipartisan support since the incoming Donald Trump administration may choose not to go through with it. It would lead to potential supply-chain disruption, which is hard to assess.

Key chips designed in the US by companies like Nvidia and AMD are fabricated abroad. Some of the key raw-material inputs are also drawn from nations that are not on the "favoured" list. In addition, research and development (R&D) centres for chip design and data centres may be located in nations, such as India, which face import curbs, and they may choose to retaliate. Navigating those geopolitical considerations may lead to the proposed framework being moderated or scrapped by the next administration. However, assuming it is not scrapped, it could put a crimp in India's ambitious plans to develop large AI capacities. Those plans depend in the short to medium term upon imports of hardware and GPUs to build compute capacity. In the long run, policymakers hope that incentives will encourage the growth of a local fab industry. But India has no fabrication capacity to speak of now, and is unlikely to have one in the near term at the high end, which is being targeted by this proposal. It would take years to develop such capabilities at the required scales along with enormous investment from the very few transnational players with the requisite knowhow to build fabs at scale. India does have strong chip-design capabilities and it could potentially leverage those along with its many other ties with the US economy to win "favoured" status. It also has a high-growth data-centre industry, which could readily absorb GPUs and which can service global requirements. The knowledge base also exists for India to become a big player in the artificial-intelligence development ecosystem, exploiting its own large domestic market as a "testbed" to create and deploy new use cases. In the short term, it would require smart diplomatic negotiations along with leveraging soft power India possesses to try and circumvent such curbs. Both Nvidia and AMD have India exposure with R&D centres. India is also a key military ally of the US in its efforts to curb China. The Silicon Vallev connections and the long-term relationships built by India's information-technology services giants could also help the Indian government to persuade the US to pull India into the favoured list. If such efforts don't work out, however, Indian AI ambitions would need to be scaled back until such time as alternative GPU sources could be developed. Ideally, those would be in fab units located within India, or in overseas facilities owned by Indian businesses. The timeline for this could be uncertain and raising domestic capital of the orders required would also be a challenge.

Macro signals flashing amber

The Budget should target a fiscal deficit of 4 per cent of GDP, undertake reductions in import tariffs, and announce India's intention to join at least one major Asian free trade agreement new year has begun and the central government Budget is only a couple of weeks away. The Budget for 2025-26 is being framed in an exceptionally uncertain international environment. Donald Trump will soon be sworn in as President of the world's single super power accounting for more than 25 per cent of global GDP. He has already threatened a serious ratcheting up of tariffs and other forms of protectionism against not just China but also friendly nations such as Canada, Mexico and India. US foreign economic policies are likely to further downgrade the role of multilateral institutions such as the WTO, IMF, World Bank, and UN and its agencies. Instead, there will be much greater emphasis on transactional bilateralism in American foreign policy. Global forecasters foresee deceleration in world economic growth, mainly because of rising trade restrictions and possibilities of heightened internation conflicts. In India, after the unprecedented

6 per cent drop in real GDP in 2020-21 because of Covid and lockdowns, there was a remarkably strong recovery in the next three years with GDP growth averaging a little over 8 per cent. Consumer price inflation too had accelerated but was seemingly contained to below 6 per cent by 2023-24. The current account deficit (CAD) in the balance of payments clocked below 1 per cent of GDP that year and the combined (centre and states) fiscal deficit had fallen to around 8.5 per cent of GDP in 2023-24 from a peak above 13 per cent in Covid-hit 2020-21. The banking system appeared to be in good shape, with low ratios of non-performing assets, and corporate balance sheets were strong. There was even some positive news in the usually dismal employment data.

In the nine months since March 2024 the picture has altered considerably, with some underlying weaknesses sharpened. The quarterly GDP growth (Y-o-Y) slowed significantly from 8 per cent in January-March 2024 to 6.7 per cent in April-June, and further to 5.4 per cent in July-September. Inflation too has been stubborn, staying close to 6 per cent in the three months to November 2024. Although the CAD is unlikely to breach 2 per cent of GDP, export performance has continued weak, net foreign direct investment had dropped to 0.3 per cent of GDP by 2023-24 (the lowest level in more than 20 years), net foreign portfolio investment has been volatile with a down> ward bias and the rupee has weakened despite substantial sales of dollars by the RBI from its foreign exchange reserves. Since the peak of over $700 billion of forex reserves held by the RBI in late September 2024, they had dropped to $644 billion by end December, a sizable decline by any standards. A couple of areas merit some elaboration.

> The roller coaster trajectory of the combined fiscal deficit is mainly due to variations in the centre's fiscal deficit, which doubled from 4.6 per cent of GDP in 2019-20 to 9.2 per cent in 2020-21 because of Covid and lockdown before coming down to 5.6 per cent in 2023-24. It is likely to be below the budgeted 4.9 per cent of GDP in the current financial year. The combined fiscal deficit is likely to be 7.5-8.0 per cent of GDP in the current year which is a lot better than in 2020-21 but almost double the historical low of 4 per cent attained in 2007-08 and substantially higher than in other Asian developing nations. The key question is whether the creditable fiscal consolidation achieved in the last three years is enough for macro-stability to be maintained in the more turbulent world economy expected by many in 2025. There is a strong prudential case for the Budget to target further consolidation to around 4 per cent in 2025-26. That would also help to reduce the very high government debt to GDP ratio of 84 per cent prevailing in March 2024. Even a small reduction would signal the right intent. (Recall that the 2017 NK Singh Committee report on fiscal responsibility and budget management had recommended a target government debt to GDP ratio of 60 per cent). It would also check the inexorable rise in the share of interest payments in total government expenditure in recent years, which has inevitably crowded out some worthwhile development expenditures.

In the first dozen years of this century, India's exports of both goods and services grew strongly. As a share of GDP total exports almost doubled from 13 per cent in 2000-02 to an average of 25 per cent in the three vears 2011-14, with the goods share accounting for 17 per cent and services share for 8 per cent of GDP, much of it due to IT-enabled services exports. Since then, the services exports share of GDP has held its ground and then increased to over 9.5 per cent in the last two years. However, the performance of goods exports has been seriously disappointing, with its ratio to GDP falling markedly to around 12 per cent by 2016-17 and languishing at that low level except for a temporary uptick in 2021-23. As a consequence, the share of total exports in GDP was below 22 per cent in 2023-24, as compared to the 25 per cent peak a decade earlier.

The weak performance of goods exports over the last decade is of great concern for several reasons. First, it is the largest earner of foreign exchange. Second, it is an important provider of low-skill jobs. Third. it is a significant component of aggregate demand. Fourth, it has been an important arena of opportunity for micro, small and medium enterprises. Among the factors behind the decline in the goods share of GDP over the past decade has been the substantial real (inflationadjusted) appreciation of the rupee after 2009-10 (as measured by indices of real effective exchange rates published by the RBI), India's weak performance in plugging into global value chains and the trend increase in import tariffs (especially on inputs and intermediates) since 2015-16, except for the welcome reductions in the July 2024 Budget.

Against this background, the forthcoming Budget should undertake further reductions in import tariffs, especially on inputs, and seriously consider an announcement of India's intention to join one or both of the two Asian mega-regional free trade agreements RCEP and CPTPP. Outside the Budget, the RBI should reduce its rupee-supporting sales of dollars from reserves in order to facilitate some orderly reduction of the real effective exchange rate. As the old saying goes "a stitch in time saves nine".

Tackling urban groundwater contamination

ater is in constant motion — melting, evaporating, condensing, and circulating through the Earth's systems, never static. As part of this natural cycle, water seeps into the soil, accumulating in underground reservoirs that supply vital groundwater resources. During the 20th century, advancements in water well drilling, pumping technology, energy access, and geological knowledge facilitated the rapid extraction of larger quantities of groundwater. Groundwater, therefore, became a critical pillar supporting human well-being and economic development, yet it remains widely misunderstood, undervalued, and poorly managed. Today, nearly 50 per cent of the world's urban population relies on this invisible yet indispensable resource. However, as cities expand, the quality of shallow aquifers is increasingly compromised by improper waste disposal, sewage leakage, and contamination from landfills.

As cities expand, the demand for water and sanitation services grows, but in many cases, sewage and wastewater treatment infrastructure has struggled to keep pace. Projections by the World Bank show that by 2036, approximately 600 million people, or 40 per cent of India's population, will live in its towns and cities, a significant increase from 31 per cent in 2011. This urban growth is accompanied by a substantial economic shift, as urban areas are expected to contribute nearly 70 per cent of the country's gross domestic product. As urban development accelerates, the spread of impervious surfaces like concrete and asphalt reduces the natural recharge of groundwater, limiting the ability of aquifers to dilute contaminants. Combined with the pressures of climate change, these factors contribute to a cycle of groundwater pollution, making it harder to ensure safe and clean drinking water for the rapidly growing urban population. The growing urban population also CONURBATION intensifies the demand for water and wastewater infrastructure, often outpacing the development of adequate treatment systems. In 2021 itself, the Central Pollution Control Board (CPCB) noted that India generated 72,368 million litres per day (MLD) of sewage in urban areas, while the installed treatment capacity was 31,841 MLD, with an operational capacity of 26,869 MLD. This meant only 28 per cent of the sewage was treated, leaving 72 per cent untreated and disposed of into rivers, lakes, and groundwater. To address the growing crisis, Indian cities should rethink its approach to urban water management. embracing cutting-edge solutions that combine technology, sustainable practices, and integrated planning. A circular economy for water is the key in urban areas. While expanding centralised sewage-treatment plants is essential, decentralised systems must also be a part of the solution. Modular, small-scale wastewater-treatment units installed at the neighbourhood or building level can treat wastewater close to the source, alleviating the pressure on overburdened central facilities. Integrating resource-recovery technologies, extracting valuable nutrients (nitrogen and phosphorus), biogas, and even water for non-potable reuse can not only address wastewater treatment but also create a circular economy where water and nutrients are continuously recycled.

Urban centres can also look for a seamless integration of technology for groundwater management. Smart water networks, powered by IoT (internet of things) sensors and artificial intelligence, offer a cutting-edge solution, enabling real-time monitoring of water quality and quantity. Climate-resilient groundwater management, through artificial recharge, rainwater harvesting, and water-efficient technologies, is vital as climate change alters precipitation patterns. Together, these strategies can create a robust, adaptable urban water system, capable of meeting the challenges posed by rapid u isation. India has already laid a foundation for water conservation and groundwater recharge through initiatives like the Jal Shakti Abhiyan (JSA), launched in 2019, which focuses on rainwater harvesting across both rural and urban districts. Additionally, the Atal Mission for Rejuvenation and Urban Transformation (AMRUT) 2.0 encourages rainwater harvesting and aquifer management in urban areas. The Ministry of Housing & Urban Affairs has also introduced guidelines, including the Unified Building Bye Laws (UBBL) and Model Building Bye Laws (MBBL), to promote water conservation and rainwater harvesting. Strengthening and scaling up these initiatives with more localised, adaptive solutions will be the key to addressing India's growing water challenges. Regular monitoring and the integration of technological innovations will be essential in urban areas to enhance the effectiveness of water-management initiatives, enabling smarter, more efficient use of resources and ensuring long-term water sustainability and quality in India's rapidly expanding cities.

According to the Annual Groundwater Quality Report 2024 by AMIT KAPOOR the Central Ground Water Board, 20 per cent of groundwater samples from across India exceeded the safe nitrate concentration limit of 45 mg/litre, with some districts reporting contamination levels above 40 per cent. States like Rajasthan, Maharashtra, and Tamil Nadu have been particularly affected, with nitrates leaching into groundwater from excessive fertiliser use and poor wastemanagement practices. This pollution poses serious health risks, including waterborne diseases and conditions in infants. Bevond nitrates, the report also revealed alarming levels of other toxic substances; 9.04 per cent of the samples tested contained fluoride concentrations surpassing permissible limits, while arsenic contamination was particularly severe in regions like West Bengal, Uttar Pradesh, and Assam. As groundwater quality continues to deteriorate, the risk to millions of urban residents is growing, imperilling access to even safe drinking water.

Decoding India's landmark international agreements

BOOK REVIEW

nternational agreements and treaties can have a profound impact on a country's global relations and domestic politics but the factors that influence them tend to be shrouded in confidentiality and faded memory. In his book Negotiating India's Landmark Agreements, AS Bhasin, a veteran scholar and academic retired from the Ministry of External Affairs, makes a painstaking examination of the historical significance and diplomatic intricacies of five pivotal agreements that India has signed since independence: (i) the India-China Agreement in Tibet (1954); (ii) the Indo-Soviet Treaty of Peace, Friendship and Cooperation (1971); (iii) the Simla Agreement (1972); (iv) the India-Sri Lanka Accord (1987) and; (v) the India-United States Civil Nuclear Energy Agreement (2008).

The author's research on the India-China Agreement on Tibet, 1954 was based on the Nehru papers from the Prime Minister's Museum and Library. He explains that the British policy of using Tibet as a buffer between India and China as demarcated by the contentious McMahon Line remained unrecognised by the latter. China wanted a fresh agreement with India to determine its trade relations with Tibet, which it had already annexed. though its status as an autonomous region was undecided. Mr Bhasin observes several climb-downs in India's position and also shows how New Delhi missed the opportunity of a quid pro quo on the boundary issue. This lackadaisical approach is attributed to Nehru's foreign policy that prioritised world peace in which China was to be a significant partner.

On the India-Soviet Union Treaty of 1971, Mr Bhasin provides a lucid account of the geopolitical complexities that underpinned its signing. Pakistan had come under the grip of the US and been co-opted into Southeast Asia Treaty Organisation and Central Treaty Organisation; President Richard Nixon was cozying up to China; the Soviet Union sought to limit Chinese influence with India as a counterweight: China resented western countries' arms supply to India in the 1962 war: and in East Pakistan the repressive measures of the Pakistani Army led to civil war and caused a massive refugees influx into Bengal. Emboldened by her electoral victory in 1971, Indira Gandhi took a pragmatic view of the geopolitical confabulations and signed the treaty. It was not a military alliance but was significant as it marked, for the first time, a deviation from India's Non-Alignment policy, Mr Bhasin observes.

Concluding the Simla Agreement in 1972 became essential for a number of reasons: To make Pakistan recognise Bangladesh: the release of more than 90,000 Pakistani political prisoners and the settlement of the Kashmir issue. The author emphasises that Mrs Gandhi's assurance not to treat Pakistan as a vanquished power was a necessary palliative for a demoralised Pakistan, a latitude that allowed the final settlement of the Kashmir issue on the Line of Control (LoC) on a mutually acceptable basis to be deferred. Thus, the Simla Agreement is said to have provided an honourable exit for Zulfikar Ali

Bhutto. Although the outcome had broadly met India's Negotiating expectations, it is said to have reflect-India's ed its weakness in being seen as the Landmark more anxious party Agreements for a peace settlement than the sub-A. S. BHASIN dued Pakistan. On the India-Sri Lanka Accord of 1987 Mr Bhasin says India's readings were incorrect. Reconciling the ethnic differences of two citizens of the same country was a futile attempt, he argues. Indian leadership failed to gauge the popular sentiment against it in the island-nation. Eventually, it turned out to be an India-Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam war. In the end, India paid a huge price in the ignominious retreat of the Indian peacekeeping force, the IPKF, and the loss of lives, including that of Rajiv Gandhi.

The timing for concluding the India-US Nuclear Deal at the beginning of the millennium was countries and accordingly guiding US policy. Prime Minister Manmohan Singh was absolutely clear that American high technology was essential for the rapid economic growth and transformation of India. He deftly sought the political support of Samajwadi Party at the critical juncture when the Left tirade against the deal risked destabilising the government.

The final waiver from Nuclear Suppliers' Group in September 2008 led to the adoption of the 123 Agreement by the Congress to seek an amendment to the US Atomic Energy Act 1954 so as to insulate India's nuclear facilities from supply disruptions, uphold its right to use spent fuel and also continue nuclear tests. Despite being a non-signatory to the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons, the deal put an end to the nuclear technology apartheid against India and, most importantly, paved the way for India to pursue its energy security. The author commends Indian negotiators for having proved more than a match for their US interlocutors and not blinking under pressure.

The agreements discussed in the book were spread over several decades. Some were rooted in history and some were the product of history. As each posed new challenges, it also provided some directions for the nation's journey in diplomacy. This treasure of a book underlines how an international agreement is the product of give and take and not based on friendship and bonhomie. Mr Bhasin's book, thus, underscores the importance of developing expertise and experience in the art of negotiating with foreign powers.

combination of concerns about corporate earnings, uncertainty about rate cuts in the US, and strengthening US dollar and bond yields has nudged foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) to continue with their selling in Indian equities in 2025. Till January 14, FPIs have been net sellers of shares worth ₹30,307 crore. On Wednesday (January 15), FPIs were net sellers worth ₹4,534 crore, according to provisional data from exchanges. ABHISHEK KUMAR Mumbai, 15 January

Quant Mutual Fund (MF), the fastest-growing major fund house, has registered a decline in its quarterly average assets under management (QAAUM) for the first time since June 2020, amid market corrections and a slump in equity fund performance.

The fund house managed ₹96,697 crore on an average in the quarter ending December 2024, a 0.4 per cent decline from the previous quarter. This is the first time in at least the last five years that its AUM growth was slower than that of the industry.

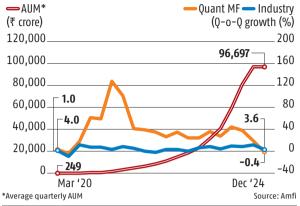

The industry QAAUM went up 3.6 per cent quarteron-quarter (Q-o-Q) to ₹68.6 trillion in the December quarter, according to data from the Association of Mutual Funds in India (Amfi).

However, Quant MF is still the fastest growing large fund house on a year-on-year basis. Compared to the December 2023 AUM of ₹40,675 crore, the December 2024 quarterly AUM is up 138 per cent.

DEVANGSHU DATTA

Exchanges earn 70 per cent of market infrastructure revenues. They are beneficiaries of speculative activity. The listed BSE has around 29 per cent of the notional options turnover (Dec'24). Restriction on weekly expiry contracts per exchange from Nov'24 has impacted volumes.

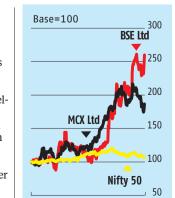

But BSE saw improvement in premium average daily turnover or ADTO (9 per cent absolute growth in Dec'24), premium turnover market share (at 15 per cent in Dec'24), and the premium-to-notional turnover ratio (at 10 basis points in Dec'24 vs. average of 7.3 basis points in previous 3 months).

Decline in notional turnover lowers regulatory charges and clearing & settlement costs, boosting profitability. The change in Sensex expiry day from Friday to Tuesday may boost market share. The scaleup of co-location servers will bring in high-frequency traders and institutions. Star MF (webbased platform for distributing mutual funds) has delivered stellar performance.

The partial implementation of the new F&O regulation from Nov'24 led to reduction of weekly expiry contracts to one per exchange. This led to a 15 per cent decline in F&O notional ADTO and a 12 per cent decline in F&O premium ADTO for BSE.

But BSE had only two weekly expiry products - Sensex and Bankex, compared to NSE's four. Sensex derivatives are now the only weekly expiry contract, while Bankex and Sensex 50 contracts moved to monthly expiry.

BSE saw 9 per cent growth in premium ADTO in Dec'24, driven by an increase in trading of options on non-expiry days. Notional turnover may decline 10 per cent in FY26 and grow 16 percent in FY27.

As of Dec'24, BSE's options notional and premium market share has improved to 29.4 per cent and 14.6 per cent respectively (13.8 per cent/4.8 per cent in Dec'23). The shift of weekly expiry day of Sensex option contracts from Friday to Tuesday may boost market share due to the gap with the existing weekly expiry day of Nifty contracts (Thursday).

In the cash segment, BSE's market share was at 6 per cent in Dec'24 (8.5 percent in Dec'23). Star MF, the mutual fund business of BSE, processed average 50.6 million transactions per month in 1HFY25 vs. 30 million in FY24. BSE will be launching Star MF 2.0 with ₹21 crore invested in the platform.

Co-location could be the next big revenue driver. Co-location attracts institutional investors, which drives volumes for longdated options, with higher realisations at lower costs.

The premium-to-notional turnover ratio may improve to 12 basis points in FY26 and 13 basis points in FY27, boosting revenue. BSE may register a revenue growth of 44 per cent and 74 per cent for operating profit over FY24-27. Better premium-tonotional turnover ratio will offset volume decline.

BSE used to see large volumes on expiry day. The premium-to-notional turnover ratio was at 8 basis points vs. 18 basis points for NSE (Nov'24). With volumes up on non-expiry days, this ratio has increased to 10 basis points in Dec'24.

The minimum lot size for Sensex contracts is up from 10 to 20, for Bankex contracts from 15 to 30 and for Sensex 50 contracts from 30 to 60. Margin for BSE's contracts remain lower than for NSE. The BSE subsidiary Indian Clearing Corporation Ltd (ICCL) earns treasury income on clearing and settlement funds. BSE earned ₹180 crore (13 per cent of its revenue) in FY24 and 8 per cent of its revenue as of Q2FY25 for FY25. After the implementation of new regulations, earnings from ICCL will be hit.

So the BSE revenue mix is skewed towards transaction charges, However, increasing cash market activity, continued momentum in Star MF platform and scale-up of colocation can help diversify the mix. Listing fees, treasury income, data services and index business lends stability. Operating profit may clock a growth of 74 per cent during FY24-27, with margins rising to 61 per cent in FY27 (34 per cent in FY24). Net profit (excluding exceptional gain) is also expected to see a growth of 74 per cent over FY24-27.

MSIL's engines of growth: Volume gains, launches

Stock hits 12-week high aided by positive outlook

DEEPAK KORGAONKAR & RAM PRASAD SAHU Mumbai, 15 January

hares of the country's largest bassenger vehicle (PV) maker, Maruti Suzuki India (MSIL), hit a 12-week high of ₹12,194.5, gaining nearly 4 per cent on the BSE in Wednesday's intraday trade. The PV maior ended the day 1.7 per cent higher at ₹11,940.6. In comparison, the BSE Sensex ended 0.29 per cent higher, while the BSE Auto index fell 0.53 per cent. The stock has also outperformed the market this month, riding on robust volumes in December and a positive outlook from brokerages.

Dispatches to dealers in December were up 29.6 per cent year-on-year (Y-o-Y) at 178,000 units. Exports witnessed doubledigit volume growth with an increase of 39.2 per cent Y-o-Y at 37,419 units. A positive for the company is the higher sales in the entrylevel segment, which accounted for 44 per cent of domestic sales in December. The segment saw a growth of 29 per cent Y-o-Y. While the midsize segment declined by 5.1 per cent, utility vehicle sales maintained their momentum with a 21 per cent rise to over 55,000 units.

Analyst Amit Dhameja of Centrum Broking points out that MSIL's strategy of consistent new launches, export expansion highlighted by achieving 3 million cumulative exports, and efforts to normalise inventory levels contributed to its volume growth and robust sales performance. In addition to this, higher year-end discounts, coupled with the anticipation of a price hike from January this year, also contributed to MSIL achieving record retail sales of 252.000 units.

The brokerage, which has a 'buy' rating, believes that the long-term growth drivers remain intact, given the strong growth in sports utility vehicles (SUVs), increasing penetration of units based on compressed natural gas, a surge in exports, and the company's electric vehicle foray by the end of 2024-25. IIFL Research highlights that a pickup in small car volumes would

The stock is the top pick of IIFL Research, given that the risk/reward is now favourable after a year of sharp underperformance.

With the sharp correction in the stock over the past three/four months and considerable underperformance in 2024 (up 5 per cent versus Nifty Auto gains of 23 per cent), the risk/reward is quite favourable, savs the brokerage. The stock is trading at 23x 2025-26 earnings, which is at a discount to its history and 10 per cent cheaper than the automobile original equipment manufacturer basket in India.

While analysts at Emkay Global Financial Services remain cautious on the overall PV space (weak underlying fundamentals, intensifying competition in electric vehicles), the brokerage firm said they prefer MSIL on a relative basis, due to emerging green shoots in small cars, relatively better launch visibility (seven-seater SUV in the second half of 2025), and undemanding valuation (below long-term average on a one-year forward basis).

The stock trades at 22x its core earnings (September 2025-26), compared to 27x for Mahindra & Mahindra and 23x for Hyundai Motor India.

FIRE AND ALLIED PERILS POLICY Declare correct property value for adequate payout

HIMALI PATEL

The recent wildfires in America's Los Angeles area underscores the growing need for fire insurance, particularly in India, as climate change and urbanisation amplify such risks. Disasters like these can devastate homeowners whose life savings are tied to property, but who often lack adequate insurance

"Climate change has led to an increase in the frequency, severity, and scale of natural disasters worldwide. The wildfires in Los Angeles are a reminder of this growing threat and the need to protect one's property and assets through insurance," says Indraneel Chatterjee, co-founder, RenewBuy.

What does fire insurance cover?

Fire insurance, also called as fire and allied perils policy (and often part of a home insurance policy), covers a range of risks. 'These include fire, explosion, riots, floods, storms, earthquakes, and malicious damage," says Amitabh Dewan, head, large risks, Policybazaar for Business, Chatteriee adds that damages caused by shortcircuits, aircraft, cyclones, tempests, bushfires, are also covered. These policies cover costs of repair, reconstruction, or replacement of insured properties. While basic policies focus on structural damage, comprehensive ones extend to household contents like furniture, electronics, clothing, and other personal belongings.

"Coverage for furniture, appliances, and valuables. including their sum insured, must be separately mentioned in the policy," says Subramanyam Brahmajosyula, chief product and marketing officer, SBI General Insurance.

Chatterjee adds high-value items such as jewellery, artwork, and antiques may need separate coverage or endorsements. Irfan Shirwani, managing director, placement and claims, Lockton India, informs that coverage for these policies excludes the cost of land.

Key exclusions

Those planning to buy this policy should be aware of its exclusions. "Standard policies do not cover fire caused by war, terrorism, or wilful misconduct. Precious items like coins, art, or contents over 10 years old are also excluded," says Abhishek Kumar, a Securities and Exchange Board of India (Sebi) registered investment adviser and founder, SahajMoney.com.

Exclusions also include loss caused by wear and tear, depreciation, nuclear risks, and illegal use of the property. "Some policies may exclude claims if the property was unoccupied for a prolonged period or lacked adequate protection," says Brahmajosvula.

based on the covered area and the construction rate. Experts recommend opting for reinstatement value rather than market value. "Although premiums are higher for reinstatement value policies, they ensure adequate funds to repair or rebuild a property to its original state," says Kumar. In contrast, market value policies account for depreciation and may not pay enough to restore the property.

Premium cost

Fire insurance premiums range between 0.025-0.05 per cent of the asset value per annum, according to Chatteriee. He adds that factors like building age, size, fire protection measures, and location influence premiums. "Additional perils can be covered by paying extra premium. If some perils are deleted, discount is offered. Discounts are also offered on long-term policies and to customers with a good claims history," says Shirwani.

Mistakes to avoid

Buyers should declare the correct value of their property, and accurately specify the covered area and construction rate, suggests Dewan. "In case of total loss, an undervalued policy will fail to provide adequate coverage," says Kumar." Chatterjee suggests opting for insurers with strong financials and good claims his tory. If a misfortune occurs, inform the insurer so that a surveyor can be appointed. Provide a detailed account of damages and necessary documents," says Shirwani.

Why did the RBI peg the exchange rate?

'n a series of recent articles, we pointed out that in 2022, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) abandoned the flexible exchange rate regime that had been in place for three decades and replaced it with a de facto peg against the dollar. We emphasised how this change cost the economy, resulting in an uncompetitive exchange rate and lost exports, overly tight liquidity at a time of decelerating growth, and heightened risks of speculative attacks. This begs an important question: Why did the RBI change policy?

The RBI must come out with an official explanation, but until it does, we can only guess. But there w reasonable are a state the total foreign currency liability exposure if Indian firms have raised money offshore in other ways.

Even so, overall private investment did not take off. So, it is possible that the major effect of the "subsidy" — the reduction in exchange rate volatility – was that firms merely substituted foreign borrowing for domestic financing. What is certain is that the surge in ECBs had an unwelcome side-effect, namely that it increased the exposure of private firms to the risk of currencv depreciation. And this put the RBI in a bind when the dollar began to rise on global foreign exchanges in October 2024. If it allowed the rupee to depreciate, this would put stress on firms, such as those in infrastruc hypotheses.

One common explanation is that it happened accidentally. That is to say, the RBI never meant to peg the exchange rate. Its real objective was to rebuild reserves after the country's foreign exchange cushion had been eroded in the middle of 2022. So, when capital started to flow into the country again. attracted by India's postpandemic resurgence, the Central bank decided to buy up the dollars rather than allow the rupee to appreciate.

There is clearly something to this hypothesis, as the RBI has often preferred to build reserves rather than allow appreciation. But the explanation is surely incomplete. For a start, it does not explain why the RBI has since 2022 intervened repeatedly on both sides of the market. not just to prevent appreciation but also to forestall depreciation. Nor does it explain why the RBI fought so hard to preserve the peg when depreciation pressures arose in late 2024. even at the cost of expending sizeable amounts of the country's hard-won reserves.

A second hypothesis is that the RBI was focused on combatting inflation, and worried that a depreciation would undermine their efforts. It is true that inflation remained above the 6 per cent limit for some time after the pandemic. It seems reasonable, then, to think that the RBI wanted an extra instrument in its antiinflation fight, especially since part of the inflation problem in early 2022 was coming from abroad.

Instead the RBI would have needed to allow the exchange rate to appreciate, to reduce the rupee impact of higher foreign prices. In any case, the whole issue proved moot, as global petroleum and fertiliser prices came down by more than 30 per cent in the second half of 2022 and have not been a problem since. Accordingly, inflation concerns cannot explain why the rate was pegged since late 2022. Another hypothesis commonly advanced is political, namely that the government prefers a strong rupee. It is true that politicians of all stripes, in suddenly threatened, when all countries, dislike falling the US Federal Reserve currencies. But despite began to increase interest these preferences the RBI rates sharply. Something

> A hypothesis is that the RBI was focused on combating inflation, and worried that a depreciation would undermine their efforts

So for this explanation to be valid, we would need to identify a major shift in politics that took place in late 2022. None seems obvious. Still, we are getting close to the nub of the issue. We need to find an important development in 2022 that would have caused the RBI to shift its exchange rate policy. We have already ruled out a political shift. But perhaps there is an economic one. A clue is provided by the figure which shows that External Commercial

On the authorities was how to translate India's post-pandemic resurgence into a sustained boom. To achieve this, investment needed to revive. And while many firms indeed had ambitious projects on the drawing board, particularly in infrastructure, they needed financing, preferably from foreign markets. which offer lower rates and longer maturities than domestic ones. other hand, minimising the rupee's depreciation against a rising dollar would cause the rupee to appreciate against third currencies such as the euro, squeezing the profitability of the vital export sector. In the event, the decision to defend the peg in October 2024 led to a serious erosion of India's competitiveness, as the RBI itself noted in its latest bulletin. Moreover, the more recent attempt to control the pace and extent of the rupee's decline has increased anxiety and accelerated the capital outflows. Reserves have consequently fallen by $70 billion in the past few months, around $6 billion just in the past week alone. The lessons are clear. Short-term solutions sometimes end up creating long-term problems, from which it is difficult to extricate. Everyone knows the oft-quoted lines from Oscal Wilde's The Importance of Being Earnest: "The chapter on the Fall of the Rupee you may omit. It is somewhat too sensational. Even these metallic problems have their melodramatic side." Ironically, in this episode, it is the rupee not falling and remaining stubbornly stable that may have dramatic explanations and consequences.

SHINE JACOB

Chennai, 15 January

rom planning artificial intelligence (AI) ► laboratories (labs) across the state and setting up a Centre of Excellence for AI to collaborating with global majors like Google, PayPal, Applied Materials, Amazon Web Services (AWS), and many other investors, Tamil Nadu is moving a step ahead of other states in the AI revolution in India, with Chenn-AI being the epicentre of that.

the Last week. Government of Tamil Nadu announced the setting up of a 2 million square foot facility for AI in Coimbatore under the public-private partnership mode, taking another giant leap in spreading its AI ambitions to multiple cities. Not just that, at the application level, the state is marching ahead of others by implementing measures like a facial recognition-based attendance system in 3,000 government schools and offices, using AI to help farmers with updates, improving the traffic system in Chennai, and introducing the ambitious e-Paarvai (evesight) system, an intelligent mobile application leveraging AI to identify the presence of cataracts in screened individuals. A major advantage for the state is Google's initiative to set up the Tamil Nadu AI Labs. one of its largest globally.

Google: Partnering Naan Mudhalvan to skill "Tamil Nadu is always ahead of others in promoting 2 million youth in Al industries, information technology (IT), and other emerging sectors. In line with the emerging changes in technology (tech), the state government is actively pursuing transformative fields such as AI. blockchain, the Internet of Things, and electric vehicles," Chief Minister MK Stalin said on Friday, addressing the state's flagship tech summit UmagineTN 2025. Interestingly, the government is also establishing a Centre of Excellence for AI with AI lab infrastructure. The AI labs will be offered to startups, academics, and other parties for a subsidised fee to foster research and development around AI.

According to sources, the interests of these companies may even revolutionise the transportation system in Chennai as an AI-enabled

one. It may link the suburban rail to buses and taxi services under one platform. Google is also targeting the training of 2 million vouth in AI through a curriculumbased approach, starting from engineering colleges in the state. Tamil Nadu contributes 17 per cent of engineers — the highest by any state - of the 1.5 million graduating in India annually. "In the case of AI, Tamil Nadu has emerged as a leader in India. The state has a vision to integrate AI as a key driver in its ambition to become a $1 trillion economy. Historically known for its agrarian roots. Tamil Nadu is rapidly transforming into a tech-driven economy, spanning industries from semiconductor to AI," said Jibu Elias, an AI ethicist and country lead (India) for Responsible Computing Challenge at Mozilla Foundation.

"Around 85 per cent of skilled labour in the sector are local Tamilians, a large proportion of whom are women. Unlike many states where tech progress is concentrated in a single city, Tamil Nadu's tech and AI advancements are distributed across multiple smaller cities, fostering more inclusive growth and regional development." Elias said.

Unlike Karnataka and Telangana, Tamil Nadu is expanding its digital footprint to more cities with new IT parks in cities such as Coimbatore, Salem, Madurai, and beyond.

Pixxel's pvt satellite launch propels India into new orbit

SHINE JACOB Chennai, 15 January

Pixxel, a Bengaluru-based space technology company backed by Google and building the world's highest-resolution hyperspectral satellite constellation, has successfully launched the first three satellites of its Firefly constellation.

The Firefly constellation also marks a watershed moment in India's space journey as the nation's first commercial satellite constellation. The satellites were integrated via Exolaunch and launched aboard the Transporter-12 rideshare mission with SpaceX from Vandenberg Space Force Base, California.

Another Bengaluru-based startup, Aditya Birla-backed Digantara, also announced the successful launch of its SCOT (Space Camera for surveillance, which will detect and track objects as small as 5 centimetre, as part of SpaceX's Transporter-12 mission.

This launch marks the first phase of Pixxel's commercial constellation, with three additional Firefly satellites scheduled to launch in the second quarter of 2025

The Fireflies, currently the world's highest-resolution commercial-grade hyperspectral satellites. bring unprecedented precision to monitoring the planet and set a new benchmark for hyperspectral imaging capabilities.

This cutting-edge resolution is paired with the ability to capture data across over 150 spectral bands, enabling Fireflies to detect subtle changes in chemical compositions. vegetation health, water quality, and even atmospheric conditions with unmatched accuracy.

Orbiting in a sun-synchronous orbit at roughly 550 kilometre, the Fireflies will form the cornerstone of Pixxel's mission to build a health monitor for the planet.

"The future of our planet depends on how deeply we understand it today. The successful deployment of our first commercial satellites is a our shared future.' defining moment for Pixxel and a giant leap towards redefining how More on business-standard.com

BLOOMBERG 15 January SpaceX launched a pair of commercial satellites carrying lunar rovers as competition intensifies in the private sector's race to the moon. The California-based company's Falcon 9 rocket was carrying two probes when it took off early Wednesday from NASA's Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

lunar landers

One probe is from Texas-based Firefly Aerospace Inc. Its so-called Blue Ghost marks Firefly's first foray into lunar exploration and the company will attempt a landing on the moon in about 45 days.

Sharing the rocket with Blue Ghost is the Hakuto-R probe from Tokyo-based iSpace Inc. It's scheduled to reach the moon around the middle of the year if all goes well in what is the startup's second attempt after getting frustrating close to making history last April.

One lander was from Texas–based Firefly Aerospace while the other was from Tokyo-based iSpace Inc

The Hakuto-R will take longer to get there because Ispace is taking a safer and less energy intensive route and aiming for a flatter landing spot on the moon's surface this time around.

The expeditions are the latest in the commercial sector's lunar contest after India in August 2023 became the first country to land a spacecraft near the moon's south pole.

Months later, in February 2024, Intuitive Machines Inc's lander became the first private spacecraft to reach the lunar surface, and got much closer to the south pole, where scientists are eager to solve the origin of the moon's water.

CHATGPT CAN NOW SET REMINDERS

OpenAl has introduced new assistant-like functionalities for ChatGPT, beginning with a tasks feature that enables users to set reminders or plan future activities. According to the company, this feature allows users to create one-time reminders and instruct the AI chatbot to execute recurring actions automatically. For instance, users can request ChatGPT to provide weekly global news updates, design a customised daily workout plan, schedule birthday reminders, and more.

Samsung previews new Al features

Samsung has offered a glimpse of upcoming Galaxy Al features ahead of its Galaxy Unpacked event scheduled for January 22. These enhancements, set to debut with the Galaxy S25 series, include a multimodal experience through Sketch to Image, and smart suggestions through the new Now Bar interface on the clock screen.

WhatsApp launches new features, design updates

WhatsApp is rolling out multiple features and design updates aimed at improving the texting experience. Among these are video call-like effects for sharing photos and videos in chats, personalised stickers created using selfies, and the option to share entire sticker packs. It also added double-tap gesture, which will enable users to react with most recently used emojis.
